

D.A. POWELL

TWO GAMESHOWS

A WORD FROM OUR SPONSORS

Oneida says silver
Serutan says regular
Geritol says liver
Sprint says cellular

Ore-Ida says buttered
Miss Clairol says splendor
Bufferin says buffered
Marlboro Lights says filtered

Sony says remote
Stopette says poof
Old Gold says smoke
Ford Fiesta says moonroof

Frigidaire says defrost
Amelia Earhart Luggage says lost

LIGHTNING ROUND

Agnes Moorhead rubs her forehead
"Oscar," she lips with an endless ellipses

The contestant, a co-ed with no head for show biz asks "Grouch?" Agnes scratches, composes herself and proposes

"Doctorate" with a load of dead air leading up to the word. A blank inferred.

"Is it 'award'?" "No it's not award now think!" Agnes instructs her. "Esteemed."

To which the coed screams "Honorary!"

"Yes, honorary!" claps Agnes, victoriously.

"I'm sorry," says Allen, "the word was ornery."

Photo credit: Matt Valentine

D. A. Powell is the author of Atlas T, new from Rescue Press. He teaches at University of San Francisco.